Liberalisation of trade in agricultural commodities

2305. SHRI SITARAM YECHURY: Will the Minister of CONSUMER AFFAIRS, FOOD AND PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION be pleased to state:

(a) whether Government have decided to liberalise the trade in agricultural commodities;

(b) the reasons which forced Government hitherto not to liberalise the said trade;

(c) the impact of this decision on the prices of agricultural commodities;

(d) whether the recent price rise in agricultural commodities is caused by Government's decision to liberalise trade in agricultural commodities; and

(e) if so, whether Government will review its decision on this front?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF CONSUMER AFFAIRS, FOOD AND PUBLIC DISTRIBUTION (SHRI TASLIMUDDIN): (a) and (b) Yes, Sir. The Inter-Ministerial Task Force on Agricultural Marketing Reforms, which submitted its report in June 2002, had made a number of recommendations to make the agricultural marketing system more vibrant and competitive. As a follow-up measure, the Central Government, in order to guide the States in the implementation of the suggested reforms, drafted a Model Act on Agricultural Marketing which, Inter-alia, provided for the establishment of direct purchase centers and farmers markets for direct sale to consumers and complete transparency in the pricing system. While some State Governments have amended the Agricultural Produce Marketing Regulation (APMC) Act, some other States have initiated action for making amendments to the Act.

(c) and (d) The reforms in agricultural trade have generally provided opportunities to the farmers for realizing better prices. The reasons for recent rise in prices of agricultural commodities are largely short fall in domestic supplies relative to demand and hardening of international prices.

(e) Does not arise.
